Cincinnati, OH (October 4, 2016) — PublicSchoolWORKS' Staff Training System, a part of the award-winning EmployeeSafe Suite, was awarded a Gold Stevie® in the Safety Training Category in the 2016 Stevie Awards for Great Employers. More than 250 nominations from around the world were evaluated in this year's competition. The winners were determined by the average scores of more than 50 professionals who acted as judges.

PublicSchoolWORKS' Staff Training System helps education institutions provide a safe work environment for their employees. It contains the most up-to-date online course content and seamless automation to help districts improve school safety by creating training strategies that affect culture change. Once defined, the system automates the deployment, tracking and completion of safety training with little administrator involvement. PublicSchoolWORKS' Research & Development Team continually tracks legislation and then creates new courses or updates existing courses to ensure schools are meeting new requirements.

The system automatically deploys course assignments and accompanying assessments to employees via email based on their job role, which can be completed at their convenience, thus freeing up scarce in-service days for other administrative needs. The system's automation then reminds employees to complete their courses and sends non-compliance reports to administrators listing the employees who have not completed their courses. Each employee's transcript is then stored online and can be easily access for reference if necessary.

“Our customers love the Staff Training System, but being recognized by this award program further shows that districts can benefit from technology if it makes their jobs more efficient and effective while helping to provide safer learning environments,” said Tom Strasburger, Vice President, Sales & Marketing of PublicSchoolWORKS. “We want to help districts stay in compliance with risk management mandates, but we also want to help them create, implement and sustain a safe learning environment.”
