Timm is a board-certified Physical Security Professional (PSP®) and Vice President of Physical Security Services at Facilities Engineering Associates

“During the webinar, Timm will explain the roles staff and students play in school safety, highlight practical and effective physical security measures, and outline how administration should collaborate with local emergency responders.”

Cincinnati, OH (April 17, 2018) — PublicSchoolWORKS is hosting its second School Safety Talks webinar focused on crisis prevention, preparedness and response on Thursday, April 26, 2018 at 2 p.m. Eastern. During the webinar, titled “A Collaborative Approach to School Safety,” board-certified Physical Security Professional (PSP) and Vice President of Physical Security Services at Facilities Engineering Associates Paul Timm will focus on how a top-down commitment to school safety can help make schools safer. To register for the free 60-minute webinar, click here.

During the webinar, Timm will explain the roles staff and students play in school safety, highlight practical and effective physical security measures, and outline how administration should collaborate with local emergency responders.

PublicSchoolWORKS launched School Safety Talks, a free webinar initiative addressing school safety concerns with an initial focus on crisis prevention, preparedness and response, to provide schools and communities with expert advice on how to make schools safer. Alissa Parker, mother and Co-founder of Safe and Sound Schools: A Sandy Hook Initiative, kicked off the series with a webinar on the lessons learned from the Sandy Hook school shooting. Al Gille, Coordinator of Safety & Security for one of the largest career and technical centers in the United States, will present the third and final webinar of the series on Thursday, May 10, 2018. He will share how he used innovative practices and his 30+ years of law enforcement experience to overhaul Great Oaks Career Campuses’ ever-evolving crisis prevention and response initiative.
